

Cristiano Militello (Pisa, 10 August 1968) is an Italian television personality.

Biographical

It is an actor, comedian, television presenter and radio. He holds a degree in Political Science and lives in Milan.

Trained at the School of Theatre of Bologna joins the group of comedians headed to the Tuscan fresh paint programs before, and fresh air, then, conducted by Carlo Conti.

Militello has gained notoriety by collecting, in 5 books, banners funniest stadiums.

Posted outside the stadiums on tv Canale 5 Strip satirical news since 2004, every Monday - in heading the cult Strip Banner-assemble and discuss the pictures and banners of the curiosities of the funniest Italian curves and fields, interspersed with hilarious interviews with fans before and after the game.

Since 2006, the book includes all fall down, that is the best simulation of football players in the previous day. And since 2008, in an area on Saturday, tells the odd football in the world.

'Strip the banner' for 5 years is - the listening data at hand and not the National matches - the date "football" most watched TV the whole Italian.

Every day on R101 from Monday to Friday, from 6 to 10, leading the charge to 101, morning show with Paul Cavallone, Sergio Sironi, Sara and Massimo Lopez. Also on R101 to Saturday, from 14 to 15 leads to the ball boy, and with Cavallone Sironi, 60 minutes of anecdotes, antics and curiosity in the world of football.

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia.