leonardo da vinci was a florentine artist, one of the great high renaissance, was also celebrated as a painter, sculptor, architect, engineer and scientist. his profound love of knowledge and research was the keynote of both his artistic and scientific. his innovations in the field of painting influenced the course of italian art for more than a century after his death, and his scientific studies in the fields of anatomy, optics, and hydraulics prevented many of the developments of modern science. his love of knowledge and research profound was the keynote of both his artistic and scientific endeavors. his innovations in the field of painting influenced the course of italian art for more than a century after his death, and his scientific studies—particularly in the fields of anatomy, optics, and hydraulics of the many—anticipated developments of modern science.

the early life in florence
leonardo was born on april 15, 1452, in the small tuscan town of Vinci, near Florence. He was the son of a wealthy florentine notary and a farm woman. In the mid-1460s the family settled in Florence, where Leonardo was given the best education that Florence, the intellectual and artistic center of Italy, could offer.

leonardo da vinci was born on april 15, 1452, in the small tuscan town of Vinci, near Florence. He was the son of a wealthy florentine notary and a peasant woman. In the mid-1460s the family settled in Florence, where, given the best education Leonardo Was That Florence, the intellectual and artistic center of Italy, Could offer.